

Cuid de Cheacht a hAon / A Portion of Lesson One [kudj de hyakht uh hayn]

First, let's start by pronouncing the Irish phrases above. At the end of the lesson, you'll find some sample conversational sentences. Gradually the pronunciation system will be introduced, broken down by vowels, consonants, diphthongs, etc., but for now, plunging right in will help you read the passage above. The pronunciation system is explained in greater detail in the full lesson, and will be fine-tuned as the series proceeds. For right now, one thing you might notice is that Irish has silent letters galore, an extreme example being "bhfaighidh," pronounced "wai" (sounds like English "why"). However, there are some nice short simple words as well, like "lá," which means "day."
